

How to plant a HAPPY PLANT!

Hey, don't forget I need food and water!

At planting, apply Tree-Saver inoculant and in the Spring, apply a slow-release fertilizer like Osmocote.

A good rule of thumb for watering is to give me the same volume of water as the pot I came in each week. Don't forget extra care is needed for my first season, especially during the summer and the first few weeks after I was planted. You might need to water every other day if I'm new and it's hot or dry. Be sure to water the soil around me as well so my roots will want to grow out. If you're not sure if I need water, stick your fingers in my roots and have a feel. Be sure not to drown me, my roots also need to breathe. A nice slow soaking is always better than a quick squirt.
